Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: in page 1, line 1, change "a co-pending patent application" to - - US patent 6,726,494- -.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2 and 6^{-8 and 12-4} are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Caparosa 3,215,971. Caparosa discloses a pull tab comprising: an engaging portion having a top section and a bottom section, the bottom section having an engaging hole 13a adapted for receiving the mating portion of the connector; and a handling portion 14 extending from the top section and being adapted for receiving an extracting force for extracting the connector from the mating electrical device.

Regarding claim 7, Caparosa discloses an electrical connector assembly comprising; an electrical connector 10 comprising a mating portion (at 10) and a retaining portion 11 extending from the mating portion; and a pull tab 13 for extracting the electrical connector from a mating electrical device which mates with the electrical connector, comprising: an engaging portion having a top section and a bottom section, the bottom section having an engaging hole (not numbered) adapted for receiving the mating portion of the connector; and a handling portion 14 extending from the top section and being adapted for receiving an extracting force for extracting the electrical connector from the mating electrical device.

Art Unit: 2833

Regarding claim 13, Caparosa discloses an electrical connector assembly comprising; an electrical connector comprising a vertically extending mating portion (at 10) and a horizontally extending retaining portion 11 and a pull tab 13 including an engaging portion 13a defining a cavity which is configured to compliantly receive the retaining portion therein with the mating portion downwardly extending therefrom; and a handle portion 14 extending from an upper portion of the engaging portion with a root section 15 being located right above the mating portion.

Regarding claims 2 and 8, the top section comprises first and second overlapped plates 15.

Regarding claims 6 and 12, the tab is made of a resilient material.

Regarding claim 14, said cavity horizontally communicates with an exterior in a direction along which a cable extends from the retaining portion.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-5, 9-11, 15 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: regarding claims 3 and 9, patentability resides, at least in part, in the first plate having an opening and the handling portion extends from the second plate and passes through the opening, in combination with the other limitations of the base claim, and regarding claim 15, patentability resides, at least in part, in the engaging portion including a bottom wall through which the mating portion extends downwardly, and an opposite top wall from which the handle portion extends, in combination with the other limitations of the base claim.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
